

FANATICAL VOICES

Integracity's monthly newsletter offering goodies, special offers, tips and tricks, useful articles and latest news about Integracity and its services.

Welcome message from Warren Tan Executive Director Integracity Corporation

We're moving into two new homes!

The first new "home" is 5,260 square feet of space in Centrepoint Bandar Utama.

We're loving it here even though we're not completely ready to show it off to the world. (We'd love to have a drink with you in our cool new bar, but figured it wouldn't be so cool till our workmen actually finished all the drilling and sawing they're doing as I type this...)

You'll be glad to know, however, that the Really Important Things like our foosball table and Starbucks branch two floors below are fully operational for the many Really Important Brainstorming Meetings we have. And uhm... I think most of the computers and desks have been unpacked too, which is really useful for the other things, like work.

The other new home that we're moving to is our new website. Which we should have had twenty moons ago, but every time we sat ourselves down to do something about it, we were miraculously blessed with some client work that would invariably be a gajillion times more important.

So it's actually quite amazing that we're now building it, bit by bit. We should, barring any other divine interventions, have it ready for the world to see in a matter of weeks (which rather nicely coincides with when our office will be fully ready!).

Though we've heard that it's okay to launch websites even when they're not working properly. In fact, having your site in a permanent beta is de rigeur these days.

We look forward to seeing you, then, at both our new homes!
